This map is impressively detailed, though it may be too large to conveniently use while traveling. Unfortunately country border markings are so similar to regional ones that it's difficult to see outlines of countries in a glance. I carefully went over country borders with a fine felt-tipped marker and it made a big difference.

This is a planning map, not one that you would take on a driving trip. I bought it to be able to see where we wanted to go; check out general distances; find cities that we were visiting or cities that friends suggested we visit. I thought the detail was good and it gave me a good general overview of the 4 countries. I recommend it as a planning map.

This map gave me the big picture as I traveled around southeast asia. Most every road and highway noted. You need to understand exactly where you are if you are not on a tour and this is the tool to use.

This map is huge! Unfolded it's about 3'x4'. Perfect for what I needed it for. I tacked it up on the wall to plan a trip. I don't think I'll take it with me when I go as it is just too big to be functional. It's very detailed, and has good info on top places to visit. My only other complaint is its hard to distinguish the national borders on this map (I outlined the countries with black marker so problem solved). Overall it's great for what I'm using it for.

We are planning a trip in September and October so these maps will be helpful.

Wonderful map!! I purchased it so that I would be able to chart my son's backpacking travels throughout south East Asia. Of all the out of the way places he visited only one tiny location was not named on the map. I was, however, able to get a very close approximation from searching small communities nearby.

Map was just too large and not practical to unfold and use while traveling (maybe better for pre-trip planning). Also, only printed on one side which is a bit annoying.

Very large, very detailed - great for planning a trip as well as taking on the road. Durable and useful.
