Customer Reviews

Mari Millard is the former associate director of Redleaf National Institute. She has a background in financial planning and has trained and advised hundreds of child care providers over the years. Tom Copeland, JD, has written several books on business issues for the family child care field. He trains thousands of providers each year on record keeping, marketing, contracts, and other business topics.

Would not be opening a day care and completely at peace if it weren't for Tom Copeland's books.
